

We are looking for interviewees!

In our new nationwide study on the impact of the terrorist attack on October 7, 2023 on the Jewish and Israeli community in Germany, we examine the experience of the first months after the attack from the perspectives of Jews of different generations.

We are looking for interviewees to talk about their experience in individual interviews and group discussions. The interviews will be digital or in person. We are also planning to include documentation of self-observations, in order to analyse the perceptions, categorisations and effects of the terror from Jewish perspectives.

If you are interested or have any questions, please contact the study coordinator Sophia Hoppe
